

ABSTRACT

A method is described for controlling a hydraulic system, particularly of mobile working machine, with at least one internal combustion engine driving at least one hydraulic pump with adjustable volumetric displacement and possibly additional fixed-displacement pumps.